

NEO·GEO AES PRICE GUIDE

YOUR #1 UNBIASED SOURCE FOR NEO-GEO HOME CART
PRICES

Maintained by: FTL & Shawn

Values are calculated by researching actual sales conducted through various online sources. Actual sales are monitored from the market forums, experiences from the NeoStore, & eBay ended auction sales. The ended auctions of eBay do hold relevance related to current market values.

Keep in mind that this guide is most accurate when used in a Western market perspective. More specifically, the North American market. For instance, Japanese games can often be found in Japan for lower prices. However, the super rares should command these ball park premium prices anywhere in the world. The prices on this list are intended to provide both the buyer and seller with a general idea of what they can expect, but item condition and current market conditions are variables to consider. Use this helpful information accordingly.

A couple notes on nationality - an alternate nationality version of a "Japanese only" game may exist, but it will not be documented here until solid proof of an English version surfaces. The use of separate listings for alternate nationalities will only be used when there is an evident difference in both rarity and value.

All items listed are assumed to be in used, near mint condition. Also, they are all assumed to be complete (insert, manual, cart sticker, case) as well as 100% SNK authentic. Depending on missing or damaged parts, prices will vary. As a rule of thumb, the insert, manual, and cartridge each hold 1/3 value, i.e. if the manual is missing for a $100 game, expect the item to be worth 33.3% less or around $66.

The first number is the low range that you will ordinarily find the cartridge selling for in used, near mint condition. Any price less than this is likely a good bargain. The second value is the highest reasonable amount someone might pay for the item. The far right column is a rarity list. It is meant to give a general idea of how often you find these items for sale.

EC : extra common

C : common

U : uncommon

R : rare

ER : extra rare

EER : extra extra rare, near impossible to find!

EER<sup>2</sup> : may surface when the planets are perfectly aligned, expect to trade kidney or 1st born

+ = price can often escalate greater than the quoted high value

★ = this game is thought to be Japanese only in release origin

dog-tag = Dog Tag version distributed by SNK USA for North America.

euro = European (Euro) version that generally released in Europe.

Y = price increase

B = price decrease
